Plane Snatches Capsule In Midair

HONOLULU (AP)—A plane, flying at 10,000 feet over the Pacific, made the first-in-history catch Friday of a capsule parachuted from an orbiting satellite—a giant step toward man's journey into space.

Presaging the day when man will be rocketed aloft and then safely returned, a C119 Flying Boxcar snagged the 84-pound capsule 300 miles south-southwest of Hawaii after it was ejected from Discoverer XIV.

The satellite, fired Thursday from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., ejected the payload on its 17th circle ranging from 116 to 502 miles above the earth.

The jubilant crew of the history-making C119 landed at Hickam Air Force Base with the space capsule tucked safely in a metal container.

A crowd of Air Force officials cheered as the plane came back, accompanied by eight other C119s and a C130 that participated in the dramatic and successful experiment.

The capsule was ejected from the rocket satellite over Alaska. The payload plunged through the atmosphere like a comet.

Predicts Course
Ten C119 Flying Boxcars, trailing huge trapezes circled high over the assigned area. They and a Navy ship in the drop zone picked up the descending capsule on their radar screens, and computers helped them predict its course.

The weather favored them. There was a clear sky high over the 60X200-mile recovery strip south of Hawaii, with scattered clouds below at elevations of 2,000 to 7,000 feet.

Some skeptics had called it a fool's dream that an airplane could catch an object parachuting from space. But the Air Force crews were confident in spite of earlier failures.

The successful air snatch was one of the brightest of many new achievements in America's space efforts.

Top U.S. officials were frankly elated.

As soon as he heard of the successful air catch, Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, authorized the award of the Distinguished Flying Cross to the commander of the recovery plane, Capt. Harold E. Mitchell, 31, of Bloomington, Ill., and Air Medals to all members of the crew.

The presentations were later made when the plane returned to its base at Honolulu.

It was the second time in eight days that a space capsule was recovered after having been in orbit around the earth.

Clouds prevented airplanes from catching the capsule of Discoverer XIII when it plunged earthward Aug. 1.

Although the C119s had it in sight for a time, the capsule disappeared into clouds and plunged into the water 330 miles northwest of Honolulu.

Scientists Pleased
Four of the planes circled that area until the Viking radar recovery vessel could approach and send out a helicopter that plucked the capsule from the water.

Scientists were specially delighted with the midair recovery because it meant the instrument payload would be undamaged by water. Further, an ocean landing might result in serious damage, or the capsule might sink before it could be found.

Before last week there had been six failures in attempts to recover Discoverer capsules. Some of the capsules failed to separate from the mother satellite on command, or had been ejected on a wrong course.

Discoverer XIV was launched into its polar orbit from Vandenberg Air Force Base at 12:57 p.m. Thursday.

After an 18,000-mile-an-hour journey that required only 94½ minutes for one turn around the earth, the instrument packet was separated from the Discoverer satellite at 5:46 p.m. Friday.

Less than half an hour later it was in the C119 catcher's trapeze mitt. The plane exultantly reported the catch at 6:14 p.m. and 12 minutes later the valuable package was hauled aboard the aircraft by special winch gear.

The recovery plane then headed for Hickam Field, Honolulu.

There was nothing alive in the capsule, but it contained some instruments so secret that the Air Force would not indicate their nature.

Tremendous Value
Some of the equipment was designed to help two forthcoming series of surveillance satellites. Others would gather data for the Navy's transit navigation satellite program.

The military values of an achievement of this kind, in intelligence yield and missile warning data, were obvious.

And the scientists were happy that now they know how to bring back intact—given the necessary amount of luck—data and materials that have been subjected to weightlessness, the radiation, the cold and the heat of space flight.

The success again raised the question when an attempt would be made to send a living animal into space and then recover it.

Maj. Gen. O. J. Ritland, head of the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division, asked in Los Angeles if the next shot would carry an animal, replied: "Not necessarily. I wouldn't expect it in the instant future. But we're working toward that goal."

Col. Lee Battle, head of the Discoverer project, said "We want to be assured that the system is ready to go. We can't pinpoint when it will be."

Powers Receives 10-Year Sentence

U. N. To Air Worsening Congo Crisis

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Security Council will meet in extraordinary session Sunday to deal with the worsening Congo crisis. Increasing differences between Dag Hammarskjöld and Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba gave a grave air to the situation.

The secretary-general Friday sent a blistering note to Lumumba threatening to ask the Council to call off its U.N. operations altogether unless attacks on U.N. troops stop at once.

Lumumba denounced the note as blackmail and demanded removal of white U.N. troops whom he blamed for incidents in which Canadians have been beaten and robbed and U.N. security officers arrested. Lumumba reiterated a request that the Council send a 14-nation Asian-African observer team to the Congo in place of the Hammarskjöld setup.

Soviet Question Mark
The big question was whether the Soviet Union would support Lumumba's demands and turn its back on Hammarskjöld.

The secretary-general has made plain to all the Big Four powers that an East-West clash over the Congo runs the risk of plunging the newborn African republic into deeper chaos.

African representatives at the United Nations were awaiting talks with a Congolese mission sent by Lumumba before taking any definite course of action.

The African representatives, long staunch supporters of Hammarskjöld, are reported dismayed with Lumumba's actions. But they did not want to disclose their position pending talks with the Congolese.

Hammarskjöld pointedly ignored Lumumba in addressing his note formally to the government of the Congo.

Senate Unit Votes More Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee voted Friday to provide President Eisenhower $3,361,350,000 in new foreign aid funds to meet mounting Communist threats around the globe.

The Democratic-controlled group eliminated every cut made by the House except one for 200 million dollars in military assistance. But it approved an additional 100 million dollars in funds to meet unforeseeable crises.

The committee, of which Sen. Carl Hayden (D-Ariz.) is chairman, acted against a background of Red threats in Cuba, Africa and South America in the wake of the collapse of the summit conference, recent anti-American rioting in Japan, and recurring pressures in West Berlin.

Sen. Henry Dworshak (R-Idaho) said the psychological situation is such that he and other opponents of foreign aid spending didn't have a chance to force any cuts.

The $3,800,000,000 approved for military assistance—the amount voted by the House—is 500 million dollars more than was appropriated for that purpose last year.

Here are the principal items in the foreign aid bill as approved by the committee:

Defense support—economic assistance to strengthen the economies of armed allies—675 million dollars or 75 million more than the House figure.

Funds for loans to help underdeveloped countries strengthen their economies, 700 million dollars or 150 million more than the House allowed.

Point IV technical assistance, 172 million, wiping out a 22-million-dollar House cut.

Special economic assistance to friendly allies, 256 million as against 206 million voted by the House.

Main Purpose

"The main purpose of the launching is the further development of a system to support man's life in space, security of his flight and return to earth," said a Tass announcement.

Correspondents assigned to the trial of U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers said the launching seemed to have been timed with the end of the trial to demonstrate that the Soviet Union can not only shoot down high-flying American planes but also shoot up high-flying dogs.

GOP Rights Bill Buried In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—A broad civil rights bill to carry out the Republicans' platform pledges Friday went to the Senate Judiciary Committee, a long-time graveyard for such measures.

But Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) its principal sponsor, professed to be undismayed.

Before the present short session of Congress ends, Javits said, another attempt will be made to a showdown on the issue in one way or another.

The Judiciary Committee is presided over by Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.), one of the Senate's most adamant foes of civil rights legislation.

Javits said he intends to hide his time until the Senate disposes of legislation to provide medical care for the aged, the foreign aid appropriations bill, and other measures carrying urgent labels.

Typical of the manner in which the Judiciary Committee handles civil rights bills: one to provide federal aid to desegregated school districts has been in its hands since April 10, 1959. This bill carries the recommendation of President Eisenhower.

One course open to Javits would be to file a petition to discharge the Judiciary Committee from further consideration of the school aid bill. This takes a majority vote of the Senate. Should this maneuver be tried and succeed, other civil rights proposals could be tacked on to it.

Bids Opened For Bridge In County

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Highways Department Friday received unofficial low bids for road construction projects in these counties:

Schuylkill—Route 309, 6.78 miles, resurfacing from Schneeksville, Lehigh-Schuylkill County line, northwest, Lehigh Asphalt Paving & Construction Co., Inc., Tuscarora, $151,964.

Three Years In Jail Decreed For U.S. Flier

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union sentenced Francis Gary Powers as a criminal spy Friday night to 10 years—near the seven-year minimum provided by espionage laws.

He listened calmly to the sentence and then held an hour's reunion with his wife and parents.

"I realize I committed a crime and that I must be punished for it," the American flier told the military court which tried him for three days.

The three generals who judged him answered his plea for leniency by specifying that only the first three years of his 10-year term must be served in prison.

The rest of the sentence was described as deprivation of liberty, a phrase that usually means detention in a work camp.

The court said there is no appeal, but under ordinary Soviet procedure the 10-year term can be reduced a third by good behavior. This would bring the total term down to about seven years, the minimum for espionage in this country.

Some Moscow diplomats expressed belief that he might be sent home after his three years in prison.

Barbara Powers, 24, the 31-year-old pilot's wife, broke down when she heard the verdict but quickly dried her tears so she could present a brave front in the ensuing reunion with her husband.

This took place in a small room off the show trial courtroom, the ornate Hall of Columns.

The prisoner rushed to exchange kisses with his wife; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver W. Powers; his sister, Jessica Hileman; and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Monteen Brown. They talked for an hour.

Attacks On U.S.
His family lawyer, Frank W. Rogers, said after the reunion that Powers was grateful for the efforts of his Soviet-appointed defense attorney, Mikhail I. Griniov, but was distressed at the attacks on the United States that Griniov had voiced in court.

"After all, I am an American," Powers was quoted as saying.

Powers added that he realized Griniov made these attacks in an effort to help him by putting on others the blame for the high-level U2 flight that landed Powers in Soviet hands 1,200 miles within the Soviet Union.

The Soviet attorney had attacked United States policy as war-like. Powers was pictured as a pawn in East-West enmity and the court was told that the people responsible for sending Powers to the Soviet Union should have been on trial here.

But the prosecutor, Roman A. Rudenko, said in his summation that Powers "is a highly paid spy—no ordinary spy, but a specialty drilled criminal."

The court's verdict condemned "aggressive circles in the United States" for Powers' May Day flight.

The sentence, pronounced by Judge Lt. Gen. Viktor Borisoglebsky, calls for Powers' sentence to start as of May 1.

"Pleasant" Buildings
A Soviet criminal law expert attending a U.N. crime congress in London, Prof. B. S. Nikiforov, told newsmen good conduct might cut Powers' sentence to 6½ years. Deputy Chairman Lev Smirnov of the Soviet Supreme Court said the work camps contain sports fields, movie theater and workshops "where a man can go on doing productive labor."

He described the buildings as modern and pleasant—a version differing with many ex-prisoners' descriptions of the camps.

While there was nothing official available on how Powers' sentence might be reduced, there is a feeling among some diplomats and correspondents in Moscow that the Soviet Union will have no special desire to keep the flier after world excitement about him subsides.

Early in the day, Barbara Powers told a correspondent of the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia she intends to appeal to the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) for clemency. This procedure is possible under certain circumstances, although the court announced "the sentence is final and not subject to appeal."

Mrs. Powers also has expressed the hope of seeing Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

In his statement to the court, Griniov said Powers had told him he faced another trial in the United States if he returned home. He quoted the flier as saying he would be punished by 10 years in prison or $10,000 fine—or both—for disclosing details of his contract to fly for the U. S. Central Intelligence Agency.

Not-Well Based
In Washington, however highly placed officials said any such fear was not well-based. They expressed doubt that Powers would be prosecuted on his return home.

Powers had pleaded guilty at the outset Wednesday to the charge of espionage, though he professed to be just a civilian pilot flying under a $30,000-a-year contract.

President Regrets Severe Sentence

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a cautiously worded statement Friday, President Eisenhower regretted "the severity" of the 10-year sentence imposed on U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers by the Soviet Union.

Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, described the sentence as "extremely harsh—particularly when it is clear from the testimony that he was only carrying out his duty."

"I hope we all, led by the President, use our influence to help," Kennedy added. He said in response to a question that the U2 affair is not a campaign issue.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican presidential candidate, was described by his press secretary as believing the President was the proper one to speak for the nation.

This is so, said press secretary Herbert G. Klein, because of "grave international implications" in the Powers case.

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which investigated the U2 incident said he thought the sentence was "fairly lenient" for an espionage case.

NEW YORK (AP)—Only two Soviet citizens have been sentenced to prison for espionage in this country since World War II, and one of them did not serve any time. In each case, their sentence exceeded the 10 years given to U2 spy Francis Gary Powers in Moscow.

A score of other Soviet nationals, many of them diplomats, have been forced out of the country for spying. And perhaps a dozen Americans have gone to prison as spies for the Soviet Union here.

The only presently imprisoned Soviet spy is Col. Rudolf Abel, sentenced in 1957 to 30 years. Like Powers, he could have received the death penalty. Unlike Powers, he was able to appeal and did so, the appeal eventually taking his case to the U.S. Supreme Court.

In the first big postwar trial, Valentin Gubichev, Soviet engineer with the United Nations, was convicted in 1950 and sentenced to 15 years. However, he escaped imprisonment by agreeing to leave the country.

Walter Answers Teachers' Demand

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—The American Federation of Teachers was challenged Friday to back up in sworn testimony any charges it has against the House Un-American Activities Committee.

The committee chairman, Rep. Francis Walter (D-Pa.), fired a telegram at the AFL-CIO group, still in session here, as a result of a resolution adopted Wednesday calling for abolition of the committee.

Walter's challenge was referred to the federation's executive council, presumably for action before the annual convention ends.

The House committee chairman noted the federation has called on the House to give his committee the ax on grounds that committee hearings in California have resulted in "irrevocable loss of dignity, reputation and jobs of many California citizens, especially probationary teachers."

Walter retorted:

"Facts in possession of the committee indicate that some witnesses subpoenaed are, or have been concealed members of the Communist party who used their employment to weaken our national security. The reasons for the adoption of the resolution quoted above are contrary to the facts in the possession of the committee."

Then his telegram concluded: "If the American Federation of Teachers has evidence to substantiate the charges made, you are hereby cordially invited to appear before the committee and in sworn testimony present the documented facts of your charges."

Lodge Resigns U.N. Post To Campaign For Office

WASHINGTON (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge resigned his ambassadorship to the United Nations Friday to give his full time to running for vice president on the Republican ticket, starting two weeks from Saturday.

President Eisenhower, in a letter to "Dear Cabot," accepted the resignation with expressions of regret and gratitude mixed with approval of Lodge's decision.

Eisenhower put it this way: "The deep regret I feel at contemplating your leaving your United Nations post is mitigated by the knowledge that you do so only to offer yourself to the nation in an elective post of high responsibility and opportunity for service."

"In this effort you have, as you know, my heartiest endorsement. The country could ill afford in these times to lose the service of a man of your abilities."

Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, said the President intends to name James J. Wadsworth as Lodge's successor. The resignation and changeover are effective Sept. 3.

Wadsworth has been deputy chief of the U.S. delegation to the U.N. since Lodge was appointed to head it back in 1953.

Born in Groveland, N. Y., 55 years ago, Wadsworth is a Yale graduate and a Republican. Lodge's work in the United Nations—many viewers of the U.N. scene knew him as "the man who talks back to the Russians"—was a mighty factor in his being tabbed for the vice-presidential nomination. Nixon and other Republicans figure he'll do as well as a political campaigner.

The Golden Text

Isaiah.

"Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord of Hosts: the whole earth is full of His glory."—Isaiah 6:3.

Today's Lesson, Isaiah's Vision of God

By Newman Campbell
"WE are now about to study one of the most transfiguring experiences recorded of any servant of God in the Old Testament, comparable to God's call to Abraham, the experience of Moses at the burning bush, the call of Samuel when a boy at Shiloh, and the experience of Saul of Tarsus on the road to Damascus. What we are to study is a vision, but the result of it was not visionary. The experience led to the greatest prophetic ministry carried on by any one man in the 2,000 years of Israel's history before the advent of Christ."

That is a quotation taken from Peloubet's Select Notes, edited by the Rev. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith.
Isaiah writes: "In the year that King Uzziah died (742 B.C.), I saw also the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up, and His train filled the temple. Above it stood the seraphim: each one had six wings: with twain he covered his face, and with twain he covered his feet, and with twain he did fly."—Isaiah 6:1-2.

"And one cried unto another, and said, Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord of Hosts: the whole earth is full of His glory. And the posts of the door moved at the voice of him that cried, and the house was filled with smoke."—Isaiah 6:3-4.

Isaiah 6:3-4.
Then Isaiah said: "Woe is me! for I am undone; because I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips; for mine eyes have seen the King, the Lord of Hosts."

"Then flew one of the seraphim unto me, having a live coal in his hand, which he had taken with the tongs from off the altar: And he laid it upon my mouth, and said, Lo, this hath touched thy lips; and thine iniquity is taken away, and they sin purged."—Isaiah 6:5-7.

The voice of the Lord said, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" Isaiah answered, "Here am I; send me."—Isaiah 6:8.

So Isaiah was commissioned by God Himself to warn the people of the woes to come unless they came back to Him and were healed.

Then Isaiah asked, "Lord, how long?" He answered, "Until the cities be wasted without inhabitant, and the houses without man, and the land be utterly desolate, and the Lord have removed men far away, and there be a great forsaking in the midst of the land."—Isaiah 6:11-12.

So were God's chosen people punished for their worshiping of idols and their other sins.

Christian Science Lists Services For Sunday

THE healing power of spiritual understanding will be explained at Christian Science churches Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon on Mind, which concludes the current series devoted to synonyms for God.

Christ Jesus' response to the centurion who asked help for his palsied servant will be included in the Bible readings: "And Jesus said unto the centurion, Go thy way; and as thou hast believed, so be it done unto thee. And his servant was healed in the self-same hour."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" of which Mary Baker Eddy is the author, the following selection will be read: "When man is governed by God, the ever-present Mind who understands all things, man knows that with God all things are possible. The only way to this living Truth, which heals the sick, is found in the Science of divine Mind as taught and demonstrated by Christ Jesus."

An invitation is extended to all to attend services at First Church of Christ, Scientist, corner of Monroe and Eighth Sts., Stg. at 11 a.m.

Six Laymen Will Speak At Adventist Service

CHRISTIAN education will be emphasized today at the 9:30 worship service at the Seventh-day Adventist church.

Elder Milton T. Reiber, the pastor, will introduce six laymen from the congregation who will tell how church operated school benefits the individual member, the local church, and the world church organization, for spreading of the gospel in all the world.

Laymen who will take part in this service are: Chester Miller, Thomas Foulkes, Dr. L. D. Warren, Lawrence Kitchen, Thomas Miller, and Charles Loney.

Sabbath school will begin at 10:45. The lesson for today is titled "The Gift of Life" and will deal with a study of the sixth commandment in detail. The lesson will teach how all have the inalienable right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. It will outline how the commandment forbids all violence or any act of passion, lust or intemperance that would endanger or shorten life, either our own or others.

Miss Janet Anawalt, student nurse from Washington Missionary college, will relate a mission story concerning the transformation of hundreds of former cannibals to clean Christians as a result of mission work at Mt. Michel, New Guinea.

The "Story Hour" being conducted for area children will be continued at 3 p.m. today. Services will be held at County Home today at 3 p.m.

Guest Preacher At Tobyhanna

REV. Eugene C. Duryee, pastor of the Cornwall Presbyterian Church, Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., will deliver the sermon at the 11 a.m. service tomorrow in the Tobyhanna Methodist Church. His sermon topic will be "The State of Contentment," the text taken from Philippians 4.

Rev. Thomas Smiley will conduct the service.

Executives To Meet

Merger Endorsed By Lutheran Church

WATERLOO, Ia. — The American Evangelical Lutheran Church at its 83rd annual convention here became the third church body to approve the formation of a new denomination of three million members.

On a ballot which was nearly unanimous, the 285 delegates and pastors favored uniting in 1962 with three other church bodies — Suomi, Augustana, and United Lutheran Churches. It is to be known as the Lutheran Church in America.

Previously the Suomi Synod and the Augustana Lutheran Church at their conventions in June gave consent to the proposed merger. The United Lutheran Church in America, largest of the four bodies with nearly 2,500,000 members, will decide at its 22nd biennial convention in Atlantic City, N.J., Oct. 13-20.

Final approval of the proposed merger by the AELC will come at next year's convention when a ratification vote will be taken.

Suomi's 154 congregations must ratify the agreement by a two-thirds majority, after which a final formal ratification of merger must be given by next year's convention.

Augustana's 13 geographical conferences must concur in the favorable decision at their conventions next spring and a final vote on merger must be taken at next year's synod in Seattle, Wash.

Should the ULCA approve the projected merger, the action must then be submitted to its 32 synods and will take effect when ratified by 22 of them.

Under a provision adopted by the Joint Commission on Lutheran Unity, both Augustana and the ULCA must approve the constitution of the new Church before the merger plans can go into effect.

Those two bodies issued a joint invitation to all Lutheran groups in America "to consider such organic union as will give real evidence of our unity in the faith." Of the 14 other bodies invited, Suomi and the AELC accepted.

Religion Today

A Strange Manifestation Still Amazes The Church

By George W. Cornell
A STRANGE manifestation that amazed the church of old is amazing it again today.

The thing is called glossolalia, or "speaking with tongues."

Scriptural accounts of the process in ancient times have been an enigma to most Christians ever since. Generally only the highly demonstrative, petteccial groups have claimed it still occurs. Others have been dubious.

But now it has broken out sporadically in the more reserved, traditional religious bodies, including the dignified Episcopal Church.

"It no longer is a phenomenon of some odd sect across the street — it is in our midst," says the Episcopal weekly, The Living Church. "It is being practiced by clergy and laity who have stature and good reputation in the Church."

The Book of Acts says the curious ability first came to the despairing apostles at Pentecost, after Christ's departure, enabling them to enthrall multitudes from many lands with an unknown language that overcame speech differences.

"And they were all amazed, and marvelled." As described by those familiar with the phenomenon, it involves an outpouring of technically meaningless syllables.

Linguistically, they are unintelligible. They may or may not have spiritual significance to the listener, depending on his mutual rapport with the Holy Spirit at the time, it is said.

The speaker himself assertedly senses deep spiritual import in his utterances at the time. Afterward, he may be able to interpret to some extent, or he may feel the content inexpressible in ordinary language symbols.

Sometimes also, a listener, sensitive to the spiritual influence of the occasion, may seek to interpret.

The "unknown tongue" is not, however, a media of conversation. It has been described as a reflection of intense devotional life, and is said to bring a richer awareness of God's abiding presence in a person.

In the first report of it, Acts 2:4 says that the praying apostles were "all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the spirit gave them utterance."

The account says thousands of Jerusalem visitors heard, every man "in his own language." It has been conjectured that the spiritual affluence that day was so great that ordinarily incomprehensible sounds took on definite meanings to all.

Usually, however, as taught by St. Paul in 1 Corinthians 13 and 14, such speaking is a personally rewarding spiritual experience, but makes no sense to anyone else except God.

The current resurgence of Glossolalia has been reported in several churches on the West Coast, in the Chicago area and elsewhere. The Rt. Rev. Gerald Francis Burrill, has ordered an inquiry.

"The occurrence has a historical basis, and deserves real study whenever it arises," said the Rev. Bill W. Rodgers, of New York's General Theological Seminary. "It certainly happened in New Testament times, and it is not impossible now."

There has been a widely skeptical, even derisive, attitude toward "speaking in tongues" in modern times. Consequently much of the recent activity has gone on quietly.

But in some instances, it touched off a furor—at St. Mark's church, Van Nuys, Calif. There the rector, the Rev. Dennis J. Bennett, resigned under pressure after he and various members of the parish, through consultation, prayer and experimentation, assertedly acquired the peculiar "gift of tongues."

Now serving at St. Luke's mission parish in Seattle, he says that since the Episcopal Church has been "praying for renewal of the gift of healing and miracles," it's not unusual for other gifts of New Testament times to reappear.

In early Christianity, the phenomenon is recorded as continuing into the third century. St. Paul once delivered a rebuke against its public use, although conceding he often gave way to the process himself.

Isaiah's Vision of God

The prophet Isaiah had a vision of the Lord sitting on His throne in the temple. Above it stood the seraphim, each one with six wings.—Isaiah 6:1-2.

One cried to another, saying, "Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord of Hosts: the whole earth is full of His glory." The door moved at the voice.—Isaiah 6:2-4.

Isaiah cried, "Woe is me! . . . I am a man of unclean lips!" The seraphim touched his lips with a live coal, saying, "Thine iniquity is taken away."—Isaiah 6:5-7.

The Lord asked who would tell His people of His message. And Isaiah said: "Here am I; send me."—Isaiah 6:8.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Ezekiel	46	2-3
Monday	Romans	14	22-23
Tuesday	Psalms	102	25-28
Wednesday	John	1	17
Thursday	Colossians	1	6-9
Friday	Romans	12	6-9
Saturday	Romans	12	10-18

Hardest fact for the adult mind to comprehend is that a teen-ager stands at the threshold of life.

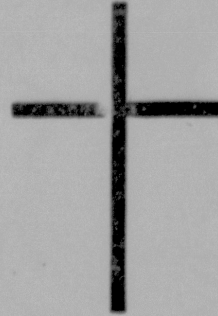

When you enter a strange door you are uncertain. You don't know what's in store for you. You aren't sure which way to turn.

There may be familiar, welcoming voices — but even these now have the ring of uncertainty. For when your whole world is changing, can you be sure that the people around you are not changing also?

For boys and girls in this time of uncertainty the Church is the fulcrum of strength. Its truth is unchanging. Its teaching is clear. Its promises are worthy of hope, trust, endeavor, sacrifice.

The problems of the teen-ager are tremendous . . . but so is the might of his God. The character, the certainty, the charity of the Church inspires his ideals . . . challenges his courage.

News From Cuba

A public opinion survey just completed in Havana and other urban areas of Cuba should be closely studied by our State Department.

It gives Washington little encouragement to hope for the overthrow of Fidel Castro by internal forces. Indeed, far from indicating civilian unrest, it shows Castro's revolutionary government appears to enjoy the support of 86 per cent of the island's population.

Peter Edson, Newspaper Enterprise Association columnist, says a thousand interviews were taken in the cross-section poll. He adds:

"If the poll is at all accurate, it should make the United States realize its job in Cuba in particular, and all Latin America in general, is a lot tougher than most Americans have realized." He says the Cubans feel they are better off under Castro than they were under Batista. There is widespread approval of Castro's agrarian reform program and of his campaign against illiteracy.

Only 30 per cent of the Cubans interviewed expressed any disapproval of the existing government, but this percentage is significant because the regime is admittedly intolerant of criticism.

The critics aimed most of their complaints at Castro's trend toward communism, at the lack of personal freedom, and at government interference with private property and private enterprise.

But the poll sums up to one thing: Cuba is backing Fidel Castro strongly as of today, and Uncle Sam has few friends there who are willing to be openly identified at this moment.

Source Of Town Progress

There is nothing better for all of us than a little soul searching now and then. It's good to ask the question: "What's wrong with me?"

Take, for instance, the case of the local merchant whose sales volume is slipping. His tendency is to blame everyone and everything but himself. He tells himself that his competitor is unfair and that because his town is not keeping up with the parade, an adjoining town is drawing its retail business away. It is the rare merchant who realizes that there may be something wrong with him and sets out to find what is out of joint.

It is true that some people shop in one town because they like it better than other towns. But more and more the tendency of the shopper is to buy in stores where they can get the merchandise they want at fair prices, where service is good and clerks courteous and helpful.

So, before the merchant starts to yammer about his town's pulling power and its prospects he ought to take a good look at his business to see if there is anything that needs correcting.

In any town there are some stores that are more successful than others? Why? Is it luck? It can't be and isn't. Success in any line of business is achieved by persons who do a superior job in meeting the wants and needs of the people. In other words, it's a matter of good service and fair treatment.

Town progress is a fine thing. And it starts with the success of the Main street store.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Presidential Campaign

Nixon v. Kennedy has not yet developed into a debate on issues. Kennedy has a brain trust of Harvard professors; Nixon has a brain trust of Harvard professors and some others. This is mostly window dressing.

Both candidates have been in the national legislature for 14 years. They know what they believe. They also know that what they believe and what they are prepared to say are not quite the same thing.

As men of great experience in politics, they will not and cannot depend on academic and business advisers to counsel them. Ultimately, they will follow those lines of least opposition which might assure election.

Nor are the academic and business advisers of either candidate particularly impressive from a vote-gathering standpoint. And elections have to do with votes; that is why they are held. Therefore, we can regard the announcement of these lists of great minds as a one-day news story and forget about them forever more.

Thus far, neither candidate has startled the nation with ideas and purposes. John Kennedy's speech at Franklin D. Roosevelt's grave was a dramatic performance of no particular vote-getting significance.

The appeal to the old voters was mindful of the long-forgotten Dr. Townsend. Granted that the problem of the aged is constantly with us, the matter is not as acute, for instance, as the deterioration of the dollar. And about that neither of the candidates speaks a word.

Richard Nixon needs to take the initiative in dealing with major problems or he has to run in defense of the Eisenhower Administration. He needs to prove to the country that he has the stature of a President as well as that of a Vice President.

In the campaign he can prove it only by words. Thus far, the Republicans have put out two propagandistic ideas: one deal with Kennedy's very bad attendance record in the Senate.

The entire country witnessed Kennedy chasing hither and yonder winning primaries, seeking delegates, etc. A man cannot be in two places simultaneously; therefore if Kennedy was beating Humphrey in Wisconsin and West Virginia, he could not be in the Senate.

The other is a pamphlet on what other Democrats said about Kennedy and it is a devastating indictment. Now, I suppose the Democrats will issue a pamphlet on what Republicans said about Nixon over the years. Such pamphlets are not fundamental.

Thus far, the candidates have

Reports From Congress

Lodge's Record

By Congressional Quarterly Washington — Vice Presidential candidate Henry Cabot Lodge built a record as a GOP liberal during his 14 years as a U.S. Senator, a Congressional Quarterly study of Lodge's voting record shows.

Most Americans know Lodge for his work as U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations since 1953. But before going to the UN, Lodge was the U.S. Senator from Massachusetts from 1937-52, with three years off for war duty. He lost the seat to John F. Kennedy in a close race in 1952.

Both before and after the war, Lodge's Senate votes placed him with the liberal wing of the GOP. In 1937, for example, he was one of only two GOP Senators who voted in favor of the federal minimum wage law. Two years later he sought to increase Social Security old-age assistance payments. In voting on the Taft-Hartley Act in 1947, Lodge opposed outlawing industry-wide bargaining and the union shop. Also after the war, he supported public housing on a number of key votes, backed federal aid to education and won a reputation as a strong supporter of civil rights measures.

Beginning in 1946, Lodge began a campaign against what he called a too-rapid demobilization following World War II. For the next six years, he consistently demanded larger defense outlays. In 1947, the Senate rejected his proposal for a larger Air Force.

Lodge sharply criticized the Truman Administration for its execution of NATO and Korean War policies. In 1951 he charged that only one-fifth of the equipment needed by NATO was being shipped. During the Korean War, he accused the Truman Administration of "inexcusable and terrible negligence" in allegedly not providing enough air support for U.S. troops in Korea. He called for an expanded Army and Air Force and the use of tactical atomic weapons in Korea.

Foreign Policy Stands — In foreign policy, Lodge was an isolationist before the Second World War. He opposed reciprocal trade bills and voted against repealing the Neutrality Act and against aid to Britain in 1940.

But even then, he voted consistently for a stronger national defense. In 1938 he supported increasing the size of the Navy and in 1940 called for compulsory selective service. He also voted for Lend-Lease in 1941.

Between me and my reader (Wherever he is): Seems Jimmy Hoffa's been working too hard, so the Teamsters Union is planning to build a really plush hotel in Miami Beach for officers and special members only. To be called the Four Seasons. . . TV producer Frank Slaten . . . (late Gleason show) is using his book publishing millions to keep up with the Jones — Jennifer that is, a New Orleans belle, at the Harwyn. (Frank once bought the movie rights to "New York Confidential" for 50Gs, then shelved the project after paying the money which is why I love him. We sold it a second time.) . . . How come the Onyx on Seventh near 59th, which was knocked off limits by the Armed Forces Disciplinary Board for an offense that is also an offense against the civil code, is still running wide-open? And how come the presiding "queen" used to preside over a W. 45th St. dive which was shuttered by the law for being a hang-out of homos? . . .

I'm tired (But not too tired): "Official" betting odds are 6 to 5 and take your choice, but if you want Nixon for a big sum, you've got to offer 15 to 10 . . . A straw poll of Borcht Bellers found an unusually large anti-Kennedy sentiment. It was either Nixon or stay-home. . . Sam

The war convinced Lodge that isolationism was outmoded. He became an all-out internationalist, attributing his conversion to the "worm's-eye view" of world affairs he got while in the Army. "I was 100 per cent wrong in believing we could stay out of the Second World War," he said in 1946. "But that was my first incarnation. I'm now an older and wiser man, or at least I hope I am." He supported the United Nations from its inception.

Lodge joined the late Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan in supporting a bipartisan foreign policy after the war. He backed aid to Greece and Turkey, the Marshall Plan, the North Atlantic treaty, aid to Korea and other foreign economic and military assistance programs. On a number of occasions he opposed the majority of his party when it voted to cut foreign aid.

Lodge sharply criticized the Truman Administration for its execution of NATO and Korean War policies. In 1951 he charged that only one-fifth of the equipment needed by NATO was being shipped. During the Korean War, he accused the Truman Administration of "inexcusable and terrible negligence" in allegedly not providing enough air support for U.S. troops in Korea. He called for an expanded Army and Air Force and the use of tactical atomic weapons in Korea.

Foreign Policy Stands — In foreign policy, Lodge was an isolationist before the Second World War. He opposed reciprocal trade bills and voted against repealing the Neutrality Act and against aid to Britain in 1940.

But even then, he voted consistently for a stronger national defense. In 1938 he supported increasing the size of the Navy and in 1940 called for compulsory selective service. He also voted for Lend-Lease in 1941.

The Allen-Scott Report

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — The official findings are very bleak on those two mysteriously missing mathematicians of the super-secret National Security Agency.

A preliminary Defense Department report to the Senate Armed Services Committee leaves no doubt the two close bachelors have defected to the Soviet, that they took valuable cryptographic information with them, and that their loss is far more serious than authorities have publicly admitted.

Sen. Richard Russell (D., Ga.), chairman, who demanded an accounting of this extraordinary affair, expects to hear further regarding it from the Pentagon. For the present, he does not contemplate an Armed Services Committee investigation. But that doesn't mean there may not be one. Russell is waiting to see what is additionally learned, and then will discuss the matter with his committee.

Meanwhile, in private talks, Defense officials have disclosed the following publishable highlights of the initial report:

The vanished NSA employees are "now deemed certain to be in Russia."

Soviet agents definitely contacted them in Mexico last December, and plans were then made for their defection.

The FBI had no connection with this case — until the two men disappeared. FBI assistance was then sought by Defense and Intelligence authorities.

The National Security Agency does its own checking of employees. This scrutiny is supposed to be exhaustive and continuous, including lie detector tests. The two missing men took such tests and passed them with flying colors. On the basis of this and other factors that have been uncovered, the NSA security system obviously has serious defects.

While the two bachelors did not hold important positions in the super-secret cryptographic agency, they are exceptionally gifted mathematicians, and one of them is rated a "genius." The other is listed as the "more dominant" of the two.

Their work did not relate to U.S. codes. They were occupied with Soviet and other foreign codes. They know a great deal about the machinery and procedures pertaining to such codes. Their knowledge and experience in this highly specialized field would be extremely valuable to the Reds.

Behind the Iron Curtain — Russia has opened a big new airport in Moscow to handle the steadily growing international jet traffic, including the latest U.S. airliners operated by foreign companies. The new airfield, originally military, has longer and wider runways and more modern equipment than the long-established Vnukovo Airport. The Soviet is also operating a helicopter service between the two airfields.

Poland has sent a special mission to Red China to "study methods for suppressing organized religion, particularly the Roman Catholic Church."

Iraq has established 150 scholarships for Iraq students in Communist countries, as follows: Poland, 55; Bulgaria, 15; Hungary, 20; Rumania, 15; Yugoslavia, 25.

Senate Edict — Those six long-pending appointments made by President Eisenhower to the Justice Department, Federal Trade Commission, Interstate Commerce Commission, Federal Communications Commission and Federal Power Commission, are definitely doomed in the Senate. Democratic leaders have served notice these nominations will be left hanging on the vine.

The same is likely to happen to judgeships in Massachusetts, New Jersey, Connecticut, Michigan, Texas, Hawaii and Alaska. None have been acted on by the Senate Judiciary Committee. There is no indication it intends to do anything about them before Congress closes.

So far, since convening in January 1959, the Senate has confirmed 546 postmaster appointments and 2,394 other civilian nominations.

Justifying their stand, Democratic chiefs are citing a precedent set by the late Sen. Robert Taft (R., O.). In April 1952, he declared the GOP would not approve any more appointments by President Truman — and that's what happened.

Under Taft's edict not even postmasters were confirmed. Still hanging fire in the Senate are 973 postmasters named by President Eisenhower in recent months.

Looming Battle — Mississippi's militantly independent Rep. William Colmer and John Bell Williams are being bluntly warned they face a showdown fight to hold their key committee positions in the next Congress. This backstage notice is being served by leaders of the so-called "Liberal Study Group," which claims a membership of 120 representatives — a little less than one-half the Democrats now in the House. Foremost among these leaders are Reps. Chet Holifield, Calif., newly-elected chairman, Frank Thompson, N.J., and Stewart Udall, Ariz.

Colmer is second-ranking member of the strategic Rules Committee that passes on legislation to be considered by the House; and Williams is No. 2 man on the potent Interstate & Foreign Commerce Committee. Both Mississippians have denounced the National Democratic platform, and favor independent presidential electors.

Their irate party critics deem this bolting the Kennedy-Johnson ticket, and are threatening to vigorously challenge Colmer and Williams on retaining their prize committee posts in the next Congress.

It's an open secret the liberal group leaders have discussed this with Speaker Sam Rayburn and other "regular" House Democratic leaders.

Need For Glasses

Who wears glasses? A good many of us, it seems.

Latest estimates are that about 77,000,000 Americans wear eyeglasses and another 6,500,000 wear contact lenses.

As has long been suspected, a survey indicates that persons whose work requires close-up use of the eyes are more likely to wear glasses than are those who can frequently look off into the distance.

Garment workers, according to a study of 18,000 industrial employees, are first in the list of visually defective persons requiring glasses.

High On List Stenographers, housewives, scholars and printers also rank high on the list.

As for clerical and administrative personnel, about 51 per cent of them wear glasses. Some 50.8 per cent of inspectors, draftsmen and near point assemblers wear them.

For skilled craftsmen and technical help, the figure drops to 43.2 per cent.

Only about one-third (35.4 per cent) of the workers on routine production jobs require

Over Three Inches Of Rain In N.Y.

By The Associated Press
A record rain swamped the New York City area Friday, delaying trains and planes and snarling automobile traffic. Meanwhile a second storm — blustery Hurricane Cleo — punched northward toward New England.

Almost 3½ inches of rain splashed on New York in the 12 hours since 1 a.m., washing from the books a 21-year record for the date.

A heavier downpour hammered on parts of suburban Westchester County to the north. There a rain fall of 4½ inches turned some streets and parkways into streams.

Cleo—the Weather Bureau called it a relatively small hurricane—moved north some 30 miles off the Carolina coast. Peak winds in the season's third tropical storm were clocked at 85 m.p.h. the storm's point of contact with the coast remained uncertain, the bureau said.

Blocks Traffic
Flooding blocked traffic at numerous spots in the New York Metropolitan area. Vehicles moved slowly, when they moved at all, along other inundated thoroughfares. Commuter trains and airplanes ran behind schedule.

The previous record rainfall for Aug. 19 was three inches in 1939. Showers and thunderstorms also slashed through portions of the Mississippi Valley, where a weather front which gave northern Illinois 2 to 3 inches of rain Thursday remained stalled. New rains generally were light, except for occasional local downpours.

Clear skies gave most of the Western half of the country temperatures in the 90s. The Pacific shoreline was a cool exception with readings in the 60s and 70s, as was the desert Southwest with levels near 100.

5 Years Since Flood Marked By Recovery

NEARLY a half-inch of rain fell here yesterday, the fifth anniversary of the flood of Aug. 18-19, 1955.

Yesterday's rainfall measured 47 inch, a far cry from the 11 inches which fell in a 24-hour period five years ago and led to the death of 75 area residents and caused damage running into the millions of dollars.

Many predicted that the Poconos were finished as a vacationland. But the voices of doom were wrong.

Business has never been better, with some 400,000 vacationers making this a banner season. And the future appears even brighter.

It was accomplished by people who refused to give up despite a night of terror and devastation. The year-round residents, aided by federal, state and local governments, rebuilt. In fact, the reconstruction is still going strong.

Hurricane Diane roared up from America's Southland, spreading destruction as it veered from the coast into Pennsylvania.

Hardest hit was the Pocono region around Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg and nearby communities. The fierce winds and driving rains churned up the normally placid waters of Brodheads Creek, killing 35 persons at Camp David, a cottage colony near Anasimink. This is one place not rebuilt. Weeds, rocks, mud still cover the site; a corn field stands nearby.

Bridges, roads, homes were wrecked. But the recovery began in the dawning of the next day—and has continued unimpeded ever since. Now this area has some of the finest recreation facilities anywhere.

$400 Loss In Accident On Route 209

NO ONE was injured in a two-car accident on Route 209 at Marshalls Creek at 5:55 p. m. yesterday.

State Police of the local barracks identified the drivers as Joseph P. Jacobs, 47, of 1537 Browning Rd., Pensauken, N. J., and Mrs. Samuel Cohen, 43, of 25 Ransom St., Wilkes-Barre.

Troopers said both were traveling east on the highway when Mrs. Cohen stopped her vehicle to make a left turn and was struck in the rear by Jacobs' car.

Damage was estimated at $250 to the Jacobs car and $150 to Mrs. Cohen's auto.

Methodists To Air Services

AT THE 11 a.m. service of the Stroudsburg Methodist Church, Rev. Roger C. Stinson will preach on "Followers of a Marked Trail" using a few of his experiences on a recent trip to Europe as illustrations of the pilgrimage of man.

Miss Jeanne Gurr of Scotrun will sing two soprano solos, "He That Kepteth Israel," and "O Lord, Be Merciful."

The service will be broadcast by WVPO.

The Church-time Nursery will be conducted by Mrs. George Sebring Jr. and Miss Patricia Rutt.

The Memorial Flowers will be given in memory of her husband, Fred W. Staples and son, William V. Staples, by Mrs. Dorothy Staples.

Rev. Ross N. Nicholson will conduct the Junior Church Program.

At the 7:30 p.m. Vesper Service Rev. Stinson will preach on "Reaping in Old Fields." Weldon Adams will play three organ solos.

For several hundred years, hurricanes in the West Indies have been named for saints on whose days they arrived.

Flood Control

There's hope, too, that the Brodheads never will rampage so disastrously again.

The Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters is handling a 1½ million dollar flood control project on the creek.

The creek's depth is being increased five feet and earthen dikes will rise 20 feet above the normal water line. All told, some 1,250,000 tons of earth will be used for the dikes, which should be completed by 1962.

Sterling W. Cramer, borough manager of East Stroudsburg, said "only those who lived through the hurricane can realize how terrible and tragic it was." He added:

"The most amazing part of all is how residents and business people returned to the scene and rebuilt on the ruins."

"They prayed and hoped there would never be another flood like that. They were jittery at first. Now they have a feeling of security with the flood control project starting."

County Breakdown
The breakdown on confirmed cases this year in other counties is: Allegheny 4, Blair 1, Chester 1, Crawford 2, Indiana 2, Lackawanna 1, Lancaster 1, Lawrence 1, Lycoming 2, Montgomery 1, and Schuylkill 1.

He said diagnosis of polio used to be relatively simple but now doctors have to wait for laboratory tests to make certain that the illness is polio and to determine the type.

"You can get paralysis from other diseases," he said, "and no one wants to make a wrong diagnosis."

Questioned about the number of cases of polio per unit of population required to be declared an epidemic, Schrack replied:

"It's a relative thing. It's awfully hard to define."

He said there could be no definite number per population unit because the time element would have to be considered.

York was released by the court and placed on six months' probation and ordered to pay a fine and costs. He was given 30 days to make payment.

York was charged with loitering and prowling at night.

There will be special music by the choir in St. Lukes Church and Mrs. James Weigand will be the soloist in The Cherry Valley Church.

The text is taken from Hebrews 11. "For he endured, as seeing Him who is invisible."

Those attending these services, please read the 11th chapter of Hebrews before coming.

Polio Cases Concentrate In Somerset

HARRISBURG (AP)—Somerset County has a higher concentration of polio cases than any other county in Pennsylvania, a State Health Department official said Friday.

"There is no question that at this particular moment Somerset is our hot spot," declared Dr. W. D. Schrack Jr., director of the department's division of communicable disease control.

Department officials said 10 cases of polio have been reported in the county which has a population of some 81,000 persons.

One of the cases was reported in May, one in June two in July and the other six this month.

A spokesman said the department is concerned about the increase in incidence which has put the county far ahead of other counties.

Schrack said there are 17 confirmed cases of polio "scattered out among the rest" of the state's population of some 11 million persons. In addition, there is one suspected case of polio each in Westmoreland and Delaware counties.

County Breakdown
The breakdown on confirmed cases this year in other counties is: Allegheny 4, Blair 1, Chester 1, Crawford 2, Indiana 2, Lackawanna 1, Lancaster 1, Lawrence 1, Lycoming 2, Montgomery 1, and Schuylkill 1.

He said diagnosis of polio used to be relatively simple but now doctors have to wait for laboratory tests to make certain that the illness is polio and to determine the type.

"You can get paralysis from other diseases," he said, "and no one wants to make a wrong diagnosis."

Questioned about the number of cases of polio per unit of population required to be declared an epidemic, Schrack replied:

"It's a relative thing. It's awfully hard to define."

He said there could be no definite number per population unit because the time element would have to be considered.

Rev. Levergood Will Present Three Sermons

"WHEN His World Collapsed", is the subject of the sermon to be given by Rev. C. Clyde Levergood tomorrow in The Neola Church at 9 a.m., St. Lukes Church at 10 a.m. and in The Cherry Valley Church at 11:30 a.m.

There will be special music by the choir in St. Lukes Church and Mrs. James Weigand will be the soloist in The Cherry Valley Church.

The text is taken from Hebrews 11. "For he endured, as seeing Him who is invisible."

Those attending these services, please read the 11th chapter of Hebrews before coming.

ON THE LEFT BANK—Asked to get something different on the second art show this season, the photographer made a surrealist interpretation of Paris in Stroudsburg. Sort of down to earth art. Double exposure, showing Brodheads Creek at right, gave desired effect.

Just Between Us—

—By Bobby Westbrook

Rome — The Olympic Fever is spreading. With every highway into Rome lined with the flags of all the participating nations — and whatever other nations think, ours is really the prettiest — flapping in the breeze against the perpetual blue sky — you can't help but get excited. Besides all the new roads, designed to speed Olympic travel which have kept Rome torn up for a year, are now being opened. They too are flag hung and every balcony sports the flags of Italy, Rome, and the five-linked ring flag of the Olympics. Some 8,000 flags the papers say and I don't doubt it.

One of the new highways (Rome's first elevated road designed by the architect Nervi who did some of the Olympics most spectacular sports arenas and who is designing the roof of the new Port of Authority building in New York) has indirect lighting and is really spectacular. So is the Forum Italico where Pete's AP wire photo office is to be transferred for the Olympics with its red buildings and dazzling white statues, copies of some of the most famous Greek and Roman statues.

And speaking of statues of famous athletes and heroes, there is an exhibit of them in art through the centuries at Rome's World Trade Center. In mosaics, statues, friezes, coins, paintings and wax miniatures, all the sports are represented: hunting, fishing, boxing, wrestling, jousting, swimming, running, boating and all the ball games. Its fantastic and absorbing. And when we were there, it was so hot that the young guides so anxious to make use of their training that they trailed us like lonely puppies.

Some of the lighter side-lights of the Olympics, however, are taking the town by storm. In a huge tent at the amusement park near the EUR Olympic area, for instance, a German beer hall has blossomed under a huge tent and is crowded every night with Italians, campers, and tourists with as many as 600 people being served sauerkraut and sausage at one time.

There is a 30-piece German band ump-pah-pahing away in their leader hosen, 50 German fraulens from Munich, who speak no Italian, as waitresses.

Pat Nixon Achieves Chic Attire On Stride Budget

Washington (AP)—Mrs. Pat Nixon, Republican candidate for First Lady, is most often described by the fashion-conscious as "quietly chic and always well groomed."

She says she dresses on a budget, and haunts bargain sales for clothing for herself and her two daughters, aged 12 and 15. She's often seen shopping in Washington stores, and she sometimes uses local dress-makers.

Her fashion choices have been called "in good taste, subdued and suit her well-groomed outlook on life." She knows fabrics because she studied fashion merchandising in school.

The willowy wife of Vice President Richard Nixon is a perfect size 10; she's 5 feet 5, and weighs 110 pounds. She wears a lot of beige and brown, and the colors go well with her light auburn hair and brown eyes.

Pat Nixon isn't label-conscious. When she does buy designer clothes, all the names are American, like Elizabeth Arden, Pauline Trigere, Fira Benenson and Jane Derby. She has very few things custom made.

Her inaugural gown in 1957 was a lustrous, ice-blue satin with bodice embroidered in pearls and crystals. It was, she said, "the only one I tried on." She got it at Elizabeth Arden's in New York City. It was blue, because her husband likes that shade.

Among the favorite costumes are the dress and jacket, a skirt with width (because she has to move about so much), and silk prints.

She favors small floral hats. Pat Nixon has learned to live

The gymnasts will compete in the Baths of Caracalla, the yachts on the Bay of Naples; the rowing and canoeing at Lake Albano. And all of them bathed in the incredible light of Italy — so clear that light and shadow; line and mass, color and shading seem automatically to compose themselves into pictures which need only a frame to make them masterpieces.

Garden Club Terms Party A 'Success'

About 170 persons attended the Monroe County Garden Club card and game party held at Shawnee Inn's Cartoon Room, on Thursday afternoon at Shawnee-On-Delaware.

The highlight of the affair was a program entitled "Faces, Past and Present" in which infant portraits of local personalities were presented. The contest came in an interlude between games and featured ten different portraits.

The object of the game was to identify the infants from the portraits. Prizes were given for correct identification.

Mrs. Russell E. Hamblin, general chairman of the party, was most happy over the success of the program. She expressed appreciation in behalf of the Garden Club and is grateful for all the courtesies received and all who assisted to make the party the great success that it was.

Hostesses for card party were Mrs. Fred Waring, Mrs. Elwood Grant, Mrs. E. R. Travis, Mrs. Edwin Oettel, Mrs. Edward C. Knob, Mrs. A. Starr Phelps, and Mrs. John Gregory.

Mrs. Hamblin introduced Mrs. Fred Waring, who spoke briefly and extended greetings. Mrs. Waring presided over the tea table. Mrs. Irving B. Kiffin, president of Garden Club also spoke.

The table was decorated with lace cloth over gold with a centerpiece holding a beautiful arrangement of pink epergnes. The setting was arranged by Mrs. Elwood Grant. Decorations were on loan from the Shawnee Inn Gift Shop.

Following Mrs. Kiffin's talk, the club recognized the birthday of club members for the month as is their custom. Birthdays celebrated during August were by Miss Fannie Swartzwelder, Mrs. Nelson A. Frantz and Mrs. Russell E. Hamblin. Each received a Tuberous Begonia which was donated by Mr. Van Selver, of Tannersville. Mr. Van Selver also donated the special prizes for "Faces, Past and Present" program and three gift certificates to other winners.

Mrs. A. Starr Phelps, chairman of horticulture, had a very nice arrangement of bells of Ireland in its setting. Mrs. Herbert Kistler provided specimens of named varieties of Dahlias for decorations which were of interest to the gardeners, guests and club members.

Mrs. Paul Fetherman displayed specimens of Angel Trumpet of Datura flowers, along with a display arranged by Miss Swartzwelder.

Guests included persons from other clubs in the district and also from the various resorts of the area.

The party and contest coincided with the 50th anniversary celebration of Shawnee Inn. It was the idea of the club to present something humorous along with the party.

Prizes were awarded at the conclusion of the program for each table and for each group of non-players.

Following is a list of prize winners among playing groups: Mrs. John Korner, Mrs. L. Weberbauer, Mrs. Edgar Van Why, Mrs. Joseph W. Kenworthy, Mrs. Howard Kester, Mrs. Henry Bauman, Mrs. Edgar Carpenter, Miss Maud Hill, Mrs.

Mrs. Paul Fetherman presented the "present" by having each appear in a picture frame on stage then displayed their pictures taken under numbers one to ten, giving a humorous clue to identity of each as picture was shown.

Everyone Needs Calcium Supply For Sound Body

By Dorothy V. Whipple, M.D.

AP Newsfeatures

Most of the calcium in the human body is in the bones and teeth—almost 99 per cent of it. But that remaining 1 per cent is important to the rest of the body. You just don't work right if you don't have a sufficient supply of calcium.

Nerves do not work well if there is even a slight calcium deficiency. They become tense and the person is irritable. He cannot relax so he doesn't sleep well.

He gets tired out of all proportion to the amount of work he does and becomes quick tempered.

Muscles need calcium, too. If calcium is inadequate, muscles tire easily and may develop cramps—sudden squeezing up of the muscles in the leg or foot which can be very painful.

Muscle irritability in young children occasionally is a contributing cause of the convulsions of high fever.

Leafy green vegetables contain a fair amount of calcium and most other fruits and vegetables contain a very small amount.

These Simple Tricks Are Treats That Go Long Way

By Cecily Brownstone

AP Newsfeatures Food Editor

It's the little extras that count.

Friends around our dining table sometimes are as interested in a garnish, a simple sleight of hand, as in a main dish we've slaved over.

What's in our stock of tricks? An assortment of easy embellishments. Ideas picked up here, there and everywhere. From restaurants. At parties. Talking to people about cooking. Reading cook books—and other books, too.

Most fun of all is to invent your own garnishes with what's in the kitchen and as you need them. Here's grab-bag sampling of some of our own bagatelles. Help yourself to any that are new to you.

Serve-yourself - accompaniments never fail to beguile. Offer them with soup.

Use miniature containers for these go-alongs. (Demitasse cups and spoons are fine). Place them on a small tray for easy passing and fill each with a topping that will complement the flavor of the soup.

With jellied red maderine or a bisque (a creamy seafood or tomato concoction) we like cucumber, avocado, pimiento-stuffed green olives—all diced, minced chives or scallions.

Sandwich partners next. Brown shelled walnut halves in hot butter and salt lightly. Delicious to munch with tuna salad between slices of good bread.

Or feature one of these sandwich partners starring pickles. For a bridge-luncheon make heart, diamond, club and spade shapes from pimientos using 1-inch cutters. (Sets of these small cutters include playing-card and other shapes).

Stack flat bread-and-butter pickles to twos or threes and top each stack with one of these pimiento pleasures.

For roast duck we've invented this fresh-tasting garnish. Pare oranges so they are membrane-free; slice into about 1/4-inch thick rounds. Choose small onions and peel; slice into rounds just thick enough to stay together—they must not be separated into rings. Roll the outside edges of the onion slices in mayonnaise and then in parsley minced finer than fine. Place each green-ringed onion slice on a round of orange.

Fresh pineapple for dessert? Remove the plume and cut into crosswise slices; with a small sharp knife remove the outer covering. Cut out the core on each slice with a small heart-shaped cookie cutter. Amusing to serve with bouquets of sweet red cherries or raspberries and sprigs of mint.

Over the top of a frosted cake we like to fashion a large bunch of grapes. Fill in the shape of a cluster with sweet seedless grapes. Be sure to add a stem! No decorating taste needed, and when it's time to create this frivolity we find teen-agers are more than willing aides.

Boorem Family Reunion Sunday

BOOREM Family 36th annual reunion will be held Sunday, Aug. 21, at the Stroudsburg Playhouse. A basket lunch will be held at noon with the business meeting getting underway at 2 p.m.

All of us are inclined to exaggerate at times, even though we try to keep our advertising claims sincere and truthful. That's why I was not too impressed when our fashion merchandising manager, Bill Wells, told me, "We have THOUSANDS of pairs of boys' slacks here at Wyckoff's." How many pairs of slacks are THOUSANDS of pairs of slacks in the eyes of an enthusiastic merchant? 500?... 800... 1000?

Bill may or may not have noticed my thoughtfulness as I pondered this point. At any rate he said, "I mean it—we really do have thousands of pairs of boys' slacks, and what's more, we have them in FIFTEEN colors." Then he clinched the subject by adding, "I'll have one of the girls count the number of pairs still in the store, and let you know. But I'm positive you'll be telling the truth if you say THOUSANDS."

At this I was impressed... Bill really meant that word "thousands," not just for my information but to be used by me for YOUR information. Therefore I wasn't surprised when, not long later, Naomi Fetherman came in to say, "Madalyn, I just counted our slacks and we have 1600 pairs on the racks alone, not to mention at least that many still back in the stockroom."

This set me thinking... We have THOUSANDS of pairs of slacks... at a glance I also note that we have HUNDREDS of little girls' dresses. We have dozens of skirts and sweaters... how many socks, for goodness sake? And, if one wishes to be explicit, how many spools of threads... beads and earrings... BUTTONS? How many baskets, in our middle aisle and our stock room? How many cards wishing how many people a speedy recovery, or a happy birthday, or a joyous wedding day? How many baby booties and diapers? How many bobby pins... cakes of soap... gloves and night gowns?

For the first time I began thinking of our store not as a whole, but as a million (ONLY a million, I wonder?) items that, in varying quantities, qualities, colors, and sizes, make up a business establishment catering to the tastes of both sexes at all ages and stages of growth. I began for actually the first time to realize the enormity of that everyday convenience we so glibly refer to as "a department store." We at Wyckoff's speak of 250 employees. That sounds like a great many people, doesn't it? But when you think of the endless chain of everything from artists' supplies to window glass that must be ordered, stocked and cared for, sold and delivered, it seems rather remarkable, to me at least, that so few persons can do so much so efficiently. It seems, I think, almost beyond belief that there can be a continuous turnover of so many items of all shapes, makes, styles, and sizes, with such a minimum of mishap and misunderstanding; that there should be so many satisfied customers and so few justified complaints... that there should be so much clockwork precision, and so little "bottlenecking." I began seeing our store—and all stores—not as a series of departments set here and there in one big building, but as columns and columns of figures that must somehow miraculously balance come inventory day. And I had a new respect for all fine stores, and for our Wyckoff executives and my fellow employees, all of whom must be pretty darned good!

But to get back to those thousands of pairs of boys' slacks and hundreds of little girls' dresses—those stacks of BVD T shirts, briefs, and socks... all that rainwear... all those note books, pencils, bookbags, Parochial school uniforms, and such. If anyone says, "I always shop in the city, because I never can find anything in Stroudsburg," I hope they say it in someone else's presence—NOT IN MINE!

NYP Geneva

GENEVA, N.Y. (AP)—Reno de Benedetti has been fired as manager of the Geneva Redlegs of the New York-Penn. Baseball League, it was announced Friday.

The Geneva Community Sports Inc., owner of the club, said de Benedetti, 30, would be replaced by Jack Cassini, scout for the parent Cincinnati Redlegs.

Geneva is in last place in the six-team Class D league, eight games out of a playoff position. In 1959, de Benedetti directed the club to a second place.

De Benedetti had been with the Cincinnati organization for four years.

Kaye Groups Seek Tamiment Jinx

TAMIMENT will need all the black cats and broken mirrors it can find next week, to keep its "jinx" intact.

The second annual Danny Kaye Golf Tournament opens Wednesday over the 7,000 plus yards course but the tourney championship may be second prize.

No professional has turned in a par or better round at Tamiment in the seven years the full 18 holes have been opened and the pro that cracks the par barrier, will be remembered far longer than the Danny Kaye champion.

Pros from six states will take part in the event, which runs Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, with a practice round thrown in on Tuesday.

Although the tournament is only officially a year old, it was previously run without the Kaye sanction. It is rapidly becoming the top pro-amateur in the East. Professionals clamor for invitations and the field is already so crowded that the last four-somes teeing off next week will have to race the darkness.

Poor Players Have No Chance

But the golf course is the bitter-sweet icing on the Kaye cake. It makes it almost impossible for "plumber" to sneak in and grab the marbles.

In fact the club pros who have been sharpening their games on a bar stool, may find themselves struggling to break 90 on the "monster," as it is referred to by many. It was called a few other names during the Pocono Professional Golfer's Assn. pro-am Thursday but they are too hard to spell.

Tamiment does not look tough and there are few out-of-bounds. The fairways are wide with only three water holes and the water is a negligible hazard.

He Said As He Put Down A Six

"This isn't a tough course," said one out-of-town amateur as he played his second shot to the first green Thursday. He felt the same way when he marked a six on his scorecard.

"Got a bad start," he mumbled as he dropped an eight iron shot just off the back fringe, on the second hole, a short three par.

Four strokes later he had the ball in the hole and his mouth shut.

One of the pros in the tournament, playing the course for the first time, could not understand why par had never been bettered. "I've never seen a golf course that tough," he said.

By the third hole the pro knew the reason. He four-putted the first, three-putted the second and third, to go six over par. And this was a pro that had won money in the three previous PPGA events he had entered.

By the sixth hole he had the ball in his pocket and failed to turn in a card. If he had finished his round, he would have carded an 82.

Back Tees Used Next Week

During the Danny Kaye, the back tees will be used. Thursday they were up front. The pin placements in the Kaye will be much easier than they were for the PPGA. The cups were hid so effectively on the second and third holes, that only four players parred both holes out of a 44-man field.

All the trouble at Tamiment is on or around the greens. There are no slots to the green, where a poorly hit shot can land short and run onto the putting surface. Balls that do hit short, kick into sand traps.

Every shot must be hit on the fly to the pin. There is no margin for error.

Greens Area Causes Most Trouble

The greens at first glance look for the most part, fairly level. But it is not uncommon to see a "level" putt break eight inches to one side of the cup.

The first two greens, although in excellent condition grass-wise, are virtually "unputtable" from above the cup. "If you don't can the putt, your ball rolls off the green," one of PPGA players remarked.

Although some of the best club professionals in the East are entered in the Danny Kaye, Lorel Tamiment is heavy favorite to continue her seven-year mastery.

Singer Wins Pocono Bat
Crown With .553 Average

DON SINGER, Ananokink second baseman, has won the Pocono Mountain League batting title with a record .553 average.

Singer, unable to play the full season because of employment, had 21 hits in 38 trips, barely qualifying for the crown under the minimum at bats rule.

Included in Singer's hit total, were four doubles, two home runs and 16 runs-batted-in.

Mertz second baseman, West End, also a second baseman, finished in the runner-up spot with a .461 mark. Mertz led the nine-team PLAYOFFS in the Pocono Mountain League open Sunday, with Kunkletown at Tannersville and Reiders at West End.

The best-of-three series continues the following Sunday, with the fields reversed. If a third game is necessary, a coin will be flipped for the game site.

The final playoffs, also a best-of-three series, will open the week following the semi-finals.

Tannersville won the league, with West End second, followed by Kunkletown and Reiders.

league in hits, 36; runs scored, 23; runs-batted-in, 19 and shared the doubles title with Kunkletown's Dean Leslie. Both had eight two-baggers.

Another Meeting Monday

Russians Trying To Block
IOC Draft Of BrundageBy WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

ROME (AP)—The Soviet Union began a subtle drive to replace Avery Brundage as president of the International Olympic Committee (IOC) Friday as politics wrestled the limelight from athletes arriving for the seventeenth Olympic Games.

Two of America's most influential Olympic officials — Brundage and William Garrard of Los Angeles—apparently split on the issue of what to call Nationalist China.

The executive committee of the powerful IOC held an all-day meeting behind closed doors and refused later to give any details of the discussions.

Draft Planned

However, it was learned that efforts were begun to draft Brundage for a third four-year term as IOC president—over Soviet objections—and that the IOC Executive Committee apparently is determined to see that Nationalist China competes under the name of Taiwan.

The Nationalist Chinese insist on the name Republic of China. IOC executives say Taiwan does not represent all of China and thus must carry the banner of its geographical location.

These and other issues are to be argued at the full meeting of the IOC Monday. A formal opening session is scheduled Saturday but likely will be devoted to routine ceremony.

Favors Taiwan

Brundage is reported to be one of the IOC members favoring Taiwan. Garrard, a member of the IOC, said he was unalterably opposed to it.

"It is known as the Republic of China in the United Nations. I will fight to keep that name," he explained.

The Taiwan delegation said the team would compete in the current games, beginning Aug. 25, regardless. The Nationalist Chinese repeated, however, they planned a strong fight on the matter.

Communist China has refused to compete in the Olympics as long as Taiwan is allowed in the games.

Brundage, a militant champion of amateurism, first was elected IOC president in 1952.

Brundage Willing

The Chicago hotelman has indicated he's willing to serve another four years, but the Russians are said to be mustering the Iron Curtain satellites and some of the smaller nations in a campaign to elect Constantin Andrianov, Soviet member of the IOC.

Aleksai Romanov, another Soviet member and chairman of the Russian Olympic Committee, was among the 80 athletes and officials who arrived Friday.

He ducked IOC political issues but firmly announced he opposed two points favored by Brundage—curtailment of the size of the games and a damper on nationalism.

"Every country must be given a chance to compete, no matter how small or insignificant its sports," he said. "As for team sports and nationalism, how can we prevent a country from wanting to win?"

No Salary
Trouble Seen
By Gottlieb

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Eddie Gottlieb, owner of the Philadelphia Warriors, said Friday there was no sign that any of his other basketball players would hold out for more money because of Wilt The Stilt Chamberlain's high-priced three-year contract.

"I anticipate less difficulty now than at any previous time," Gottlieb said, "because the players certainly are smart enough to realize that we are in a position to pay them more by having Chamberlain on the team than we would if he were not a Warrior."

"You have only to go back to last season for proof of this. With Wilt in the lineup, we gained the playoffs and set an attendance record which allowed me to give the players a bonus."

Signing Helps

"It's a good thing I signed Wilt," Gottlieb continued. "If I hadn't I would have had to send out contracts cutting the salaries of some of the players. Then I really would have held-outs."

Chamberlain signed up with the National Basketball Association team last week for an undisclosed figure. It was reported, however, to be the largest ever paid to a salaried player in any professional sport.

Still Speechless

Harlow Improved; May be Moved To Vet's Hospital

FORMER Harvard football coach Dick Harlow was given a good chance of recovery Friday at Scranton's Mercy Hospital, after two heart attacks within two weeks.

Harlow's doctor said there is "no real threat," to 60-year-old Wayne County summer resident's life.

Harlow, who also coached at Penn State, Colgate and Western Maryland, was taken to Mercy Hospital after suffering a heart attack Aug. 4 at his summer home in LaAnna. The stroke left Harlow speechless and partially paralyzed on his right side.

Chances Slim
Tuesday he was stricken with another attack and hospital oficials said he might not live 24 hours.

Friday, however, Harlow's condition was listed as "serious but not critical."

"He suffered no further body deterioration from the second stroke," said Harlow's doctor, "but he is still unable to talk or use his right side."

The doctor was unable to say if Harlow would completely regain his speech.

If Harlow's condition continues to improve in the next few days, the 1937 collegiate coach of the year, will be transferred to the Veterans Hospital in Wilkes-Barre and later to a Baltimore area Veterans Hospital, said the doctor.

Wertz, A .244 Batter, Hits
At .615 Clip With Men On

BOSTON (AP)—Vic Wertz is a split personality with a bat. His hitting averages range from .615 to .244.

Averages?
Yes, the balding 35-year-old Boston left-handed slugger came through with men on base again Thursday despite the fact the club dropped it, third straight decision, 11-7 to New York.

Wertz hit a sacrifice fly with two men aboard in the first inning. He cracked a bases-loaded single good for two runs in the fourth.

Wertz has 82 RBI to show for his 92 hits this season in a strong bid for the club's most valuable player rating. Those 82 RBI tie him with Yankee Bill Skowron for the American League runner-up spot behind New York's Roger Maris (92).

Two Grand Slams
Wertz is batting at a fantastic .615 clip with the bases full. He has six singles, two grand slam homers and 21 RBI in 13 at bats.

It drops to a low of .244 when he bats with no one on base—31 safeties in 127 trips. Vic is hitting .373 with two men on (19 in 11) and .281 with one mate aboard (34 in 121).

What goes Wertz to great slugging heights when he sees runners to be driven home?

"Honestly, I don't do a thing differently at the plate—at least consciously," Wertz insists. "I try just as hard to get my base hits with no one on. Yet it always has been this way with me. It sounds funny but I seem to be the most relaxed up there with baserunners."

"And maybe it isn't so strange anyway. With men on base the pitcher can't be cute trying for corners and wind up walking me and maybe forcing in a run. He's got to keep the ball near the plate."

Dear Abby

Her Slip Is Showing

Dear Abby: Not all nickels without mint marks are counterfeit. All nickels minted in Philadelphia with the exception of the years 1942 through 1945 bear no mint mark. The others are marked "D" for Denver and "S" for San Francisco. E. R. (Old coin collector)

Dear E. R.: You are indeed correct and I was in error. My source was counterfeit.

Dear Abby: Your advice to "Straight Up and Down" got me sore. How can you advise women to pad themselves up deliberately to deceive men about their figures? Any man who would forgive a woman for cheating that way must be nuts.

Dear Howard: Not all women are naturally round, firm and fully packed. And a man who would turn down a girl just because she wasn't "all there" isn't all there himself.

Dear Abby: Can you let me know how many people have been killed or crippled by dogs and how many have been saved by them? I was a salesman, and as far as I am concerned the only good dogs are dead ones. "Man's best friend" scratched up $1,000 worth of plants for me in three days. The owner just laughed.

Dear Blaine: The owner could have laughed himself all the way to court. Why didn't you see a lawyer?

Dear Abby: I have seen dog owners stand and hold the leash while their dogs mess up the lawns of their neighbors. Do I blame the dog? I do not. I blame the owner.

If you want a personal reply from Abby, write to her in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. She answers all letters.

Truck Goes Over Bank; Driver Cut

THE DRIVER of a tractor-trailer which jackknifed on Foxtown Hill at 6:10 a.m. yesterday escaped with only minor injuries.

Stroudsburg Police Chief John B. Tretheway identified him as Richard H. Youngman, 27, Millington, N.J. He was treated at Monroe County General Hospital for cuts of the right arm and body bruises and discharged.

The vehicle was owned by Harry E. Mundy, Bound Brook, N.J. Youngman told police he was traveling north on the highway when his brakes locked. The vehicle jackknifed, knocked out five guard rails, went over the bank and struck a tree.

Tretheway said if it had missed the tree it would have gone the rest of the way down the hill to Clermont Ave.

The tractor-trailer was empty. Damages were estimated at about $2,000.

Safety Granted To Americans

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department said Thursday the safety of Americans and their property in Laos has been assured by the new neutralist government of Premier Souvanna Phouma.

Press officer Lincoln White said U. S. Ambassador Winthrop Brown had talked to the Prime Minister and had also talked with Capt. Kong I., leader of a rebellion which ousted the pro-Western government of Premier Tiao Samanith.

There were 1,224 railroads operating in the United States at the turn of the century. Now there are about 410.

Tears Flow As Powers, Family Meet

MOSCOW (AP)—In the shadows of grief tinged with relief his family gathered about Francis Gary Powers Friday before his Soviet jailers took him away to a prison cell.

Powers' wife Barbara, 24, and his parents were led to a room behind the courtroom a few minutes after hearing a military court sentence the flier to a 10-year term for spying on the Soviet Union. They were dismal at the prospect of the years ahead, but conscious that the court could have imposed a much more severe sentence, even death.

Their tearful reunion went on for an hour and 15 minutes. Powers himself broke down in tears after kissing his wife and kinfolk.

They sat around a table laden with caviar, sandwiches, tea and coffee but could not eat.

Four or five Soviet guards were stationed about the room the whole time. When three Virginia lawyers and two doctors accompanying the Americans were invited inside, they became so overwrought by the scene they could not speak.

Frank W. Rogers, Roanoke, Va., lawyer, described the meeting between Powers and his family.

In the room besides the wife and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Powers of Pound, Va., were Powers' sister, Jessica Hileman of Washington, D.C., and the mother of Barbara Powers, Mrs. Monteen Brown of Milledgeville, Ga.

Powers told them he was especially well treated during his almost 16 weeks of captivity. "The guards were very kind," he said.

Powers explained to the small gathering that after his three years in jail — minus the time since his May 1 capture — he would be sent to live somewhere in the Soviet Union and would be given a job.

Under the usual Soviet procedure his wife could join him May 1, 1963, when he completes his prison term. Soviet law provides for this permitting those sent to "assigned residences" to have their families with them. But there was no indication this possibility was discussed at the family reunion.

Powers said he was distressed by the attacks on the United States made by his defense attorney, Mikhail I. Griniov, during the trial.

"After all, I am an American," he said.

"Gary was worried that during the defense speech America was denounced so much," attorney Rogers said. "He did not know in advance what was in the speech."

The family is grateful nevertheless, for what Griniov did for Powers, Rogers continued. They appreciated the fact that Griniov was assigned to an unpopular case and was paid only by the Soviet government.

After the reunion the family was led quietly out a back door of the building.
